

Service of notices

If an operator or resident wishes to give the other party any notice under the Caravan Parks Act 2012 (the Act), then the notice must be served in accordance with the Act.

This requires the notice to be delivered personally or sent by post addressed to the person's last known place of business, residence or postal address.

Notice to more than one party

If two or more persons are the operators or residents under an occupancy agreement, a notice or document is deemed to be served if given to any one of them.
